

HUGMEN GAINED ON BROWNS ON THEIR TRIP THROUGH WEST

YANKEES' CHANCES GOOD; GIANTS UP AGAINST IT

A. L. Champions Back Home While McGrawites Have Tough Journey Ahead.

By Ed Van Every.

THE Yankees are coming and the Giants are going. This may be taken in a literal sense. Our American League representatives are home for a two-day stand against the Athletics and shape up very much like the coming champions of their league after their successful Western invasion. Our National League hopes are crossing the Bridge for a two-day visit to Ebbets Field, and after Sunday's game with the Braves at the Polo Grounds will depart for their final swing through the West—and they're not leaving us laughing as they say goodbye.

Forty-nine more games remain on the playing schedule of the McGraw club and one is rather chary about claiming that the first hundred games were the hardest in the case of the remaining games must be played on foreign soil, which includes six in Brooklyn.

At the start and even for a considerable distance the National League race looked like a private muss, the Giants having all the privileges, and with the Cardinals making threatening gestures. And now the Pirates, Cubs, Reds and even the Robins think that most anybody can get in to the pennant race.

And now that this National League scrap has turned out to be a real fight after all, we find the champion with his back to the ropes. The Giants don't look so good that they couldn't look a whole lot better. Here are a few of the things to worry over.

During the present home stand the Giants have lost ten out of seventeen games.

Since July 1 they have lost the lead and $1 points in the League standing while the Cards have made a 34 point gain.

The acquisition of McQuillan and Scott will hardly offset the deterioration of the pitching staff, which has shown itself to be in a bad way.

Captain Dave Hancock is way off form and is plainly in need of a rest.

Helmie Groh since his return to the game following his injury has not looked the ball player he was earlier in the year and during the 1921 season.

All in all it looks like bad news. However, while there is life there is hope. The Cardinal hurling department doesn't look much better than the McGraw staff, the Pirates are going beyond their speed and should stop stepping on the gas any day, and the Giants are probably over their worst slump and are due to perk up.

It is an altogether different and more cheering story with the Yankees. They left home looking not so good and they return looking the part of prospective champions. They started off in the west by suffering a 5-0 shut out at the hands of Urban Shocker and the Browns. They return home from their 15 games abroad with 11 on the right side of the ledger and only four defeats. They have lost only one out of their last eight games and two of the four defeats suffered were only by one run, which is acting the part of a ball team that is going somewhere and know their way. As an antidote to the Giants' worries try this on your digestion.

During the western invasion the Yankees sneaked up seven points on the Browns and added twenty-three points to their standing.

Since July 1 they have cut down the lead of the pace-setting Browns 31 points, and have shown an improvement of 25 points on their part.

Gabe Ruth is hitting. Joe Judge has made a big improvement to the inner defense and has added considerably to the team punch. Sam Jones is coming around, and if he gets there you will again be taking a yodel of one of the best pitchers in the game.

All of which sounds like glad tidings.

Still Ruth & Company are afraid they won't get a chance for revenge against the Giants, though they are hoping the McGrawmen do their part toward fixing up another Polo Grounds world's series.

NOTES.

Artie Nehf was called away to his Indiana home, owing to the illness of his father-in-law, and will not rejoin the team until next Tuesday, when the Giants open at Pittsburgh.

In an exhibition game yesterday at Syracuse against the International League the Yankees put over a 3-2 victory with Lefty O'Doul pitching.

Frank Frisch was put out of the game yesterday for the first time in his big league career. Frank disagreed with Empire Stadium over a decision on a force play and just for that they wouldn't let him play. And Frank didn't want the afternoon off especially, either.

Jack Scott didn't look so good against the Reds during that 7-2 beating. And the Reds, who cast him off after a very brief look, was one team Jack was anxious to show something to.

Scott did not look anything like the pitcher he did in his first Giant start. He didn't have his real start one yesterday.

Edgie Roush started in his first major league game of the season. He struck out three times up after losing to White's song. Even but on the whole did not show sufficient form as yet to displace Harper, who shapes up like a real prospect. As a result Burns was shifted to right. If they'll let us have George back they can keep Eddie.

Hargrave, the Reds' heavy-hitting catcher, lifted one into the lower right field stand for his second homer of the series; he also got a double that hurt—it tied the score in the fourth.

Jackie Daubert's circuit drive, however, was the real big blow of the game. He rode the ball into the right field bleachers, the second time the feat has been performed this season—and there were two on at the time.

Sunday's game with the Braves will be the Giants' last appearance at the Polo Grounds until September 2, when they tackle the Robins.

Pete Donohue, but why say any more? Too bad the Giants couldn't dig up one like this Texas boy. There's a pitcher.

How about No. 22 Babe?

JIM THORPE LET OUT BY HARTFORD CLUB

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 11.—Jim Thorpe, the Indian athlete, who was imported with much relish from Portland, Ore., last May to play in the outfield and do some much needed hitting for the slumping Hartford baseball team, was fired when he finally arrived at the Springfield baseball park after the game had been started.

Dutch Ruether Faces Giants at Ebbets Field

Robins Think They Have Chance to Whip New York This Time.

By Joseph Gordon.

THE day to which every loyal Brooklyn rooster looks forward for weeks before its arrival is here at last, and the first skirmish of the Battle of the Boroughs will be fought between the New York Giants and Brooklyn Robins at Ebbets Field this afternoon.

Because of the indefinite suspension of Burleigh Grimes, "Dutch" Ruether will be sent to pitch against the Giants in the opener. Dazzy Vance, who pitched in yesterday's game with the Cubs, will be available for relief duty to-day, as he worked only five innings in the final game with the Cubs.

From the way the Giants are going at present the Robins have a very excellent chance of finishing the beating they started to give them in the last series. It will be remembered that the Robins won two games, lost one and tied for the fourth, a tie they were unable to play off because the Brooklyn team had to make trains for the West.

Not only that, but the Reds just took away what pep the world's champs had left in them after the Pirate disaster. The Reds have made it three straight over them and the Cubs before them temporarily knocked the Giants out of their lofty position in first place. Nothing will delight Brooklynites more than a decisive victory of their team over their age-old enemies. They will even go so far as to forgive them for the bad baseball they played on the road and since their return to Ebbets Field.

All of which brings us up to the final game between the Robins and Cubs yesterday. Of all the slugging games in which the locals took an active part this season, this takes the prize. The Robins bats were so active that before they were through they had a total of nineteen hits and sixteen runs, and the only thing which prevented their making more was the fact that the National League calls for the game to be of nine innings duration.

The 2,000 customers got their money's worth yesterday—if they came out to see hitting. They saw hitting, running, slugging and sliding, in fact, they saw everything but baseball, and by the time the game was at an end the faithful had the feeling which comes upon drinkers near beer—they were full but far from satisfied.

Everybody felt all the suppressed anger of the players and fans in the last month out and they did slugging enough for five ordinary ball games. Griffith hit a home run, Andy Dick got a triple and two singles. Even O'Doul came across with two safeties, one of them a double.

Dazzy Vance started the game and held the Chicagoans at bay for the first four innings, and the only thing which prevented their making more was the fact that the National League calls for the game to be of nine innings duration.
